

Revitalizing Infrastructure Across Montana

Politicians have talked about revitalizing American infrastructure for decades – Jon actually delivered. With the help of five Republicans and four other Democrats, Jon spearheaded the Bipartisan Infrastructure Law (BIL) and is fixing Montana’s aging roads and bridges, expanding airports, upgrading water systems, and connecting every household in the state to high-speed internet to meet the needs of the 21st century.

Fixing Aging Roads and Bridges

- Whether it’s hauling grain or ensuring children get to school safely, Jon knows that Montanans count on roads and bridges to get places. Through his Bipartisan Infrastructure Law, Jon secured hundreds of millions of dollars for much-needed repairs to Montana’s roads and bridges, so that Montana’s small businesses and families can travel safely across the state. It’s the most significant investment in Montana’s roads, highways, and bridges in decades.

Expanding Airports

- As Montana continues to grow, Jon knows it’s critical that small businesses and families have access to safe, reliable airport services. Through his Bipartisan Infrastructure Law and other measures, Jon delivered tens of millions to upgrade and expand airports in every corner of the state so that Montanans can stay connected from anywhere.

Keeping Montanans Connected

- Jon knows that if Montana’s students and businesses want to compete in the 21st century, it’s critical that they have access to reliable and affordable internet services. Through his Bipartisan Infrastructure Law, Jon secured resources to connect Montana’s rural households to high-speed internet so that folks can do business from every corner of the state.

Jon believes that American infrastructure should be built with American-made materials by American workers – so he took action. After working with his colleagues across the aisle, Jon successfully pushed the Biden administration to institute his “Buy America” rule that requires the use of American-made steel, iron, and other construction materials in infrastructure projects funded through his Bipartisan Infrastructure Law.

Revamping Railroads

- Reliable train service has kept Montanans connected for decades. When Amtrak's Empire Builder Route on Montana's Hi-Line faced shutdown threats, Jon got to work and restored full service. He's also leading the charge to restore Amtrak's North Coast Hiawatha Route through southern Montana to protect access to affordable interstate transportation.
- Rural states like Montana rely on railway transportation for everything from transporting livestock to moving raw materials, which is why Jon has fought to improve rail safety across the state. Jon's Bipartisan Infrastructure Law is improving safety at rural train crossings and addressing instances of blocked highway-railroad crossings across the state so that Montanans are safe and our small businesses stay strong.

Upgrading Water Systems

- As a product of rural Montana, Jon knows that clean drinking water is the cornerstone of healthy rural communities. Through his Bipartisan Infrastructure Law, Jon secured tens of millions of dollars to ensure that communities across Montana have access to safe, reliable drinking water.
- As a third-generation Montana dirt farmer, Jon knows that water is life. Production agriculture is the backbone of rural Montana, which is why Jon fought to secure $1 billion to complete rural water projects across the state, ensuring that Montana's producers can keep growing rural economies and feeding the world.
- Tribes in Montana have fought an uphill battle against bureaucracy for decades, but after working with Jon on his Bipartisan Infrastructure Law, every existing Tribal Water Rights Settlement in Montana will have the funding to be completed.

- The Milk River Project is critically important to ag producers and communities across northern Montana, which is why Jon fought tooth and nail for resources to rehabilitate the project. Through his Bipartisan Infrastructure Law, Jon secured up to $100 million to renovate this critically important piece of water infrastructure so that Montana's producers can continue feeding the world.

Buying from America

- Jon believes that American infrastructure should be built with American-made materials by American workers – so he took action. After working with his colleagues across the aisle, Jon successfully pushed the Biden administration to institute his “Buy America” rule that requires the use of American-made steel, iron, and other construction materials in infrastructure projects funded through his Bipartisan Infrastructure Law.
